The indirect object always comes between the verb and the direct object. To determine if a word is an indirect object, put the preposition to or for in front of it, and change its position in the sentence. If it is an indirect object, the sentence will still make sense.

I gave Jo a game. (Jo is the indirect object before the direct object, game.) I gave a game to Jo. (To determine whether it is an indirect object, Jo can be placed behind the preposition to and the sentence still makes sense.)

The tense of a verb tells when an action takes place.

The present tense of a verb names an action that is happening now or happens regularly. It can also express a general truth.

In the present tense of a verb, the base form of the verb is used with all subjects except singular nouns and he, she, or it. When the subject is a singular noun or he, she, or it, -s or -es is added to the verb.

Lou hears the airplane overhead. (happening now) I speak to my uncle once a week. (happens regularly) The president serves a four-year term. (expresses a general truth)

The teacher graded papers yesterday.

The future tense of a verb names an action that will take place in the future. In the future tense the word will is used before the verb. Sometimes shall is used when the pronoun I or we is the subject.

Lesson 29 Articles and Proper Adjectives

The words a, an, and the make up a special group of adjectives called articles. A and an are called indefinite articles because they refer to one of a general group of people, places, things, or ideas. A is used before words beginning with a consonant sound. An is used before words beginning with a vowel sound.

a fountain a carnival a union an orchard an envelope

The is called a definite article because it identifies specific people, places, things, or ideas.

The pot of gold was discovered at the end of the rainbow.

Proper adjectives are formed from proper nouns. A proper adjective always begins with a capital letter.

Maria practiced Irish step dancing on Mondays and Italian cooking on Thursdays.

Some proper adjectives are the same as the related proper nouns. Most proper adjectives are formed from proper nouns by adding an ending such as -an (German, Moroccan, American, African), -ian (Belgian, Indian, Egyptian, Russian), -ese (Japanese, Portuguese, Sudanese, Chinese), or -ish (Scottish, British, Swedish, English). Some are irregular and should be checked in a dictionary.

Lesson 30 Comparative and Superlative Adjectives

Adjectives can compare two or more nouns or pronouns. The comparative form of an adjective compares two things or people. The superlative form of an adjective compares more than two things or people. For most one-syllable and some two-syllable adjectives, -er and -est are added to form the comparative and superlative.

The blue car is larger than the red one. (comparative) The green truck is the largest vehicle in the parking lot. (superlative)

Some adjectives form irregular comparatives and superlatives.

Lesson 31 More Comparative and Superlative Adjectives

The comparative and superlative forms of most one-syllable and some twosyllable adjectives are formed by adding -er and -est to the adjective. However, for most adjectives with two or more syllables the comparative and superlative are formed by adding more and most before the adjective.

Tennis is more popular at my school than field hockey. (comparative) Computer games are the most popular form of entertainment. (superlative)

An adjective of three or more syllables uses less and least to form the negative comparative and superlative.

Do you have any styles that are less traditional? (negative comparative) Eileen is the least traditional member of the family. (negative superlative)

Do not use more, most, less, or least before adjectives that already end with -er or -est. This is called a double comparison and is incorrect.

Exercise 1 Write the indicated form of each adjective.

When this, that, these, and those describe nouns, they are demonstrative adjectives. Demonstrative adjectives point out something and describe nouns by answering the questions which one? or which ones? When this, that, these, and those point out something and take the place of nouns, they are demonstrative pronouns.

DEMONSTRATIVE ADJECTIVES That piano is too heavy to move. Consider buying this bicycle. Those mountains are enormous. Who can play these games? DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS That is a beautiful piano. This is the world's best bicycle. Those are the Alps. Who can play these?

The words here and there should not be used with demonstrative adjectives. The words this, these, that, and those already point out the locations here and there. The object pronoun them should not be used in place of the demonstrative adjective those.

This ancient rattle is called a sistrum. (not This here ancient rattle) Those finger cymbals are the smallest cymbals. (not Them finger cymbals)

When modifying a verb, an adverb may describe how, when, or where the action is done.

Erin approached Mrs. Binder cautiously. (describes how) Try to get to school early. (describes when) Ron and I have looked there. (describes where)

Many adverbs are formed by adding -ly to adjectives. However, not all words that end in -ly are adverbs. The words friendly, lively, kindly, and lonely are usually adjectives. Similarly, not all adverbs end in -ly. The following words are all adverbs that do not end in -ly: afterward, sometimes, later, often, soon, here, there, everywhere, not, fast, hard, long, and straight.

Exercise 1 Underline each adverb.

Lesson 34 Intensifiers

When modifying a verb, an adverb may give information about when, where, or how the action of a sentence takes place. When describing an adjective or another adverb, an adverb often emphasizes or intensifies the word it modifies. An adverb that emphasizes or intensifies an adjective or adverb is called an intensifier.

This information is rather new so it won't be in the encyclopedia. Jeff finished just slightly behind Audrey in the two-mile race.

Common intensifiers used to describe adjectives and other adverbs include almost, extremely, just, nearly, practically, quite, rather, really, so, somewhat, such, too, and very.

Lesson 35 Adverbs: Comparative and Superlative

The comparative form of an adverb compares two actions. The superlative form of an adverb compares more than two actions. Short adverbs use -er as the comparative ending and -est as the superlative ending. Long adverbs require the use of more or most.

The bus is running later than usual this morning. This is the latest I have ever arrived at school. I will try to wait more patiently, but it won't be easy. Abram attends the club meetings most frequently.

Some adverbs form comparatives and superlatives in an irregular manner.

ADVERB	COMPARATIVE	SUPERLATIVE
well	better	best
badly	worse	worst
little (amount)	less	least
far (distance)	farther	farthest
far (degree)	further	furthest

The words less and least are used before both short and long adverbs to form the negative comparative and superlative.

Which one is used less frequently? The back room is in use the least often.

Do not use more, most, less, or least before adverbs that already end in -er or -est.

Exercise 1 Rewrite the sentence or phrase using the indicated form of the italicized adverb.

Lesson 36 Using Adverbs and Adjectives

Adverbs and adjectives are often confused, especially when they are used after verbs. Use a predicate adjective after a linking verb (such as be, seem, appear, or become) to describe the subject of the sentence. Use an adverb to describe an action verb.

The winner seemed breathless as she crossed the finish line. (predicate adjective) She collapsed breathlessly when the race was over. (adverb)

Good, bad, well, and badly are often used incorrectly. Good and bad are adjectives; use them after linking verbs. Well and badly are adverbs; use them to describe action verbs. Well may also be used as an adjective when describing someone's health.

Sean and Lila should be good after so much practice. (predicate adjective) The weather was bad when we left. (predicate adjective) Katie sang well today even though she has a cold. (adverb) The number of absentees badly affected the band's performance. (adverb)

Lesson 37 Avoiding Double Negatives

Negative words express the idea of "no." The negative word not often appears in shortened form as part of a contraction.

is + not = isn't can + not = can't will + not = won't

Other words besides not may be used to express the negative. Each negative word has several opposites. These are affirmative words, or words that show the idea of "yes."

NEGATIVE	AFFIRMATIVE
never	ever, always
nobody	anybody, somebody
none	one, all
no one	everyone, someone
nothing	something, anything
nowhere	somewhere, anywhere
scarcely, hardly	some, any

Two negative words used together in the same sentence create an error called a double negative. Avoid using double negatives. Only one negative word is necessary to convey a negative meaning. Correct a sentence that has a double negative by removing one of the negative words or by replacing one of the negative words with an affirmative word.

Exercise 1 Underline the word or words in parentheses that best complete each sentence.
